Hanley (D., N.Y.), called and inquired as to whether the names of the 80 institutions referred to in the Director's statement this morning before the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence and the Senate Human Resources Subcommittee on Health and Scientific Research on drugs would be publicly released. I informed him that the Director does not intend to disclose these names at this time and that the matter is under careful consideration due to privacy and other implications. He said he had gotten a number of inquiries from constituents and asked that we inform him as soon as a final decision is made.
